Farm Census Nears Completion—Ask Cooperation

The 1954 Census of Agriculture is in its final stages locally and can be completed within the next two weeks if farmers will fill out their questionnaires and have them ready for the enumerator when he calls, according to Field Supervisor Raymond M. Flynn.

The Farm Census questionnaires were mailed in advance of the start of the field enumeration for the purpose of giving farm operators time to consult their records and fill out the forms before the enumerators began their rounds. This procedure was planned to insure greater accuracy and to save time for both the farmer and the enumerator. Completion of the farm census on time will not only help in keeping costs down but will aid in prompt publication of the results.

These goals cannot be reached, however, unless farmers assist the supervisor pointed out, urging local farmers to fill out their questionnaires and have them ready when the enumerator calls. To date, approximately 24,000 farms have been enumerated in the sixteen counties under the supervision of the local office.

COMMENTS FROM THE OFFICE OF THE TOWN MANAGER

The Committee chosen to select a name for the new street has met and decided on "Evergreen Road" as the name.

Although a heavy rain and the cold weather handicapped us to some extent the construction is completed. However, there is some needed cleaning up to be done on the shoulders. It would seem that next Spring will be the better time for this to be done. I am pleased to say we still have a little money left from the appropriation which may be used for this needed work.

County 4-H Clubs Perform 59 Comm. Services

During the 1953-1954 4-H club year 4-H Clubs of Oxford County performed 59 community services. Twenty-four 4-H Clubs raised $400.12 toward the IFYE (International Farm Youth Exchange) Program. ($700 needed.)

Already this year 1954-1955, 4-H clubs have done many community services.

Diana Hale, secretary of the Denmark Happy Hustlers, reports of several community services already undertaken since October 1 this year. From their club's treasury $5 was given to the Denmark Congregational Church and $5 given to the Old North Church. Flowers were sent to several persons in the community. The club members served refreshments at a school function in observance of American Education Week. Since the Happy Hustlers reorganized on October 1, seven club meetings have been held. The club as a group is taking a 17 hour first-aid course. Instructing the group are Mrs. Irene Schmidt and Mrs. Winde Moore of Denmark. The first aid books were purchased with money from the treasury.

There are eleven girls in the Denmark Happy Hustlers 4-H Club. Each of the seven meetings so far this year there has been 100% attendance. The club is led by Mrs. Edith Smith, who also led a club for many years with her husband "Ven" Smith in York County.

Other clubs performing community services since October 1st this year are as follows: Welchville Hummingbirds all girls 4-H Club with an enrollment of 25, is going to give parties to the Auburn children's home several times during the year. One party has already been given. Books were presented to the children by the members. The leaders of that club are Mrs. Marguerite Colby of Welchville and the assistant Mrs. Barbara Hall of Oxford. Already the club members have had judging contests on Leaves and Table Setting. Demonstrations on "How To Set a Table" were given by Ann Jackson, Sylvia Daniels, Rose Paul and Mary Slier, all of Oxford.

On Friday evening, Dec. 3, at the Sweden Women's Club House, the Sweden Hillbillies held a parent-public meeting. A demonstration on How to Alter a Pattern was given by Ellen Valley. Betty Verrill and Priscilla Helms. The club agent, Babs Kilgore, showed two films. One was on Maine and the other "Lumber is a Crop." Previous to the meeting a beef stew supper was served. The members of this club made up a Thanksgiving Basket. Leaders of the Sweden Hillbillies are Mrs. Olivia Strong and assistant Mrs. Ada Valley.

Each member of the Bethel Lucky 13 4-H Club made a doll. Thirteen dolls were presented to the Hyde Memorial Children's Home. Beth. Mrs. Abbie Brown is leader of the Lucky 13 and the assistant is Mrs. Rachel MacKay.

Maine's principal vegetable and processing crops, aside from potatoes, are peas, snap beans and sweet corn for canning; cucumbers for pickling; and lettuce for the Portland and Boston markets.

Some 3,600 people were killed in farm accidents in the United States. Several Maine farmers were among them. Farming is a dangerous business in many ways. Safe practices pay off on Maine farms.

BETHEL'S STREETS AGAIN IN HOLIDAY ATTIRE

Main and Church Streets are most attractive in holiday dress with the brightly colored lights which were installed the first of the week. This year a tree on the grounds of the Chapman estate has been decorated. At the junction of Main, Church and Broad Streets this seems to be a better location than the former one in the street nearby. The beautiful manger scene, which attracted so much favorable comment last year, is erected opposite the American Legion Home is again popular with old and young.

WSCS FORM EVENING GROUP

Tuesday evening thirty women; twenty WSCS members and ten guests had a special meeting at the Bethel Methodist Church. The evening opened with a pot luck supper. After supper Mrs. William Crossman, gave an inspiring talk on the organization of the WSCS, followed by a discussion period in which the WSCS was divided into afternoon and evening groups.

Mrs. Sylvia Luxton was elected chairman of the afternoon group and Mrs. Barbara Greenleaf, chairman of the evening group. The afternoon group will meet the first Thursday afternoon in January at 2 o'clock. The evening group will meet the fourth Tuesday of every month at 7:30 p. m.

Members of the Senior Methodist Youth Fellowship helped arrange the tables and serve the supper.

SUNDAY SCHOOL EXHIBIT

Interested parents and friends filled Garland Chapel Sunday afternoon to witness song and class work demonstrations and art work of the Primary Department of the West Parish Church.

Mrs. Edith Epper, devotional leader and Mrs. George Taylor, art director and members of the teaching staff were hostesses.

The display, consisting of finger paintings, Hebrew scrolls, and Nativity scene were done by the small children.

The classes of Mrs. Charles Merrill, Mrs. Fenton Robertson, Mrs. Harold Rolfe, and Mrs. Edward Wheeler constructed clay houses, palm trees, pottery and characters and these were assembled as a village of Palestine, a commendable exhibit.

Colored maps of ancient Palestine, made by Mrs. Tibbette's class as supplementary work in the study of Jesus' teachings and travels, received well-deserved praise.

Punch and cookies were served the guests by 7th and 8th grade girls and a social hour was enjoyed.

Col. Marx Explains State Police Work at Meeting

An interesting account of the development of the Maine State Police was given following the meeting of the Bethel Chamber of Commerce Tuesday evening by Colonel Robert Marx, chief of the State Police. He traced the history of the department following its organization with the early growth of automobile traffic through its steady growth to meet the present needs of highway regulation and added duties.

He expressed concern over the fatalistic attitude of those who take for granted the high death rate on the highways, and spoke of many efforts of the authorities which have had some effect in promoting safer driving habits. He spoke of the 172 lives lost last year and the huge national death toll and referred to the impressive financial loss thus suffered which has become more appalling to some than the mere statistics of human lives taken.

Driver training courses in schools were cited as one encouraging forward step toward increased safety. The safety records of those who have had the benefit of these are far ahead of those who have learned in the old way.

Colonel Marx told in some detail of the future needs of his department for increased personnel and of the more intensive patrols maintained in sections having higher accident rates. He stated that one fourth of the troopers' duties now are on work not associated with highways which has been added through the years for various reasons.

His informative talk was followed by an extended discussion which attracted the interest of the group in this vital department of the State government.

Safe Driving

The call for observance of a nation-wide Safe Driving Day may seem needless to the average driver, who so far has not been involved in an accident and believes that his good record is wholly due to his superior ability. We believe however that this "good record" may well be only a matter of good fortune, because so many times it seems that our lapses of good judgment are providentially balanced by the better driver that we encounter in a "pinch."

So it is well to give S-D Day a fair trial on next Wednesday, December 15. It may show that for one day accidents can be reduced, and if on one day why not on others? If it helps at all it will be worthwhile. It has been found that many things have helped a little in making us safety-conscious, and any reduction of the unquestionably needless high traffic toll should be gratefully accepted.

At present safety in Bethel village, with the exception of the measures maintained by grade school pupils for their safety, is entirely unregulated. The stop signs at the ends of the now curtailed High Street have disappeared, although they were erected a few years ago by vote of townspeople and served a good purpose. The daily rush periods near the post office remain notable examples of good luck so far.

Safe travel under winter conditions remains a matter of cooperation. Pedestrians should recognize their responsibilities at this time, knowing that drivers may not be able to see as clearly or stop as quickly. The six fundamental rules developed by the National Safety Council's Committee on Winter Driving, are well worth heeding. These rules are:

1. Accept your responsibility to do all in your power to drive without accident.
2. Get the "feel" of the road. Try brakes occasionally while driving slowly and away from traffic.
3. Keep windshield clear of snow, ice, fog, and frost. Be sure headlights, windshield wiper blades and defrosters are in top condition.
4. Use tire chains and good tires. Don't rely on worn, smooth tires. Slower than normal speeds are a "must" on snow and ice.
5. Pump your brakes to slow down or stop.
6. Follow at a safe distance.

Economic Highlights

Happenings That Affect the Future of Every Individual — National and International Problems Inseparable from Local Welfare. In the endless conflicts, military and economic, between this nation and the communist world, science and the scientists are all-important factors. Physics, chemistry, medicine, the higher mathematics, engineering of many diverse types—these are potent weapons in the struggle for advantage.

U S achievements in scientific fields are legendary. Our scientists, and those of friendly Western powers, have done the unbelievable almost as a matter of routine. Our education plant knows no superior so far as the sciences are concerned. Yet a shortage of qualified men has developed in some basic lines, such as chemistry. And that development is seriously troubling those who best understand the need for ever-greater scientific discovery and achievement—not only in the interest of progress but of survival.

In the light of this, an article on Soviet Science which appeared in a recent issue of Foreign Affairs is of significance. Written by John Turkovich, Professor of Chemistry at Princeton, it briefly traces the history of Russian science since it began under Peter the Great. At first, the scientists had to be imported from the West, Russia having none of her own. Then, over the years, Russia developed native scientists, though few were outstanding. However, Dr Turkovich writes, the 20th century opened with a good deal of promise, and up until World War I, the Revolution, and the Civil War, marked progress was made.

These bloody events set the clock back on Russian science. But the Communist regime soon saw the need for a resurgence of scientific education and training, in order to advance the social and economic goals of the state. Dr Turkovich states, "In the Marxist thinking, the control of the state cannot be separated from the control of economic production.... To its adherents, Marxism is a total philosophy and as such includes a philosophy of science."

Today science is a highly organized arm of the Soviet government. The President of the Academy of Sciences has a rank equivalent to that of a major cabinet minister. The top Soviet scientist is given many benefits—high pay, a country home, an automobile. Soviet scientific publications are excellent, and what goes on in other nations is carefully observed, studied, and reported. Every effort is given to recruiting the brightest young men and women into scientific work, and the state meets the bills. The party men and the government, to quote Dr Turkovich again, "are doing their utmost to build up a large pool of highly trained scientific and technical personnel."

This doesn't mean that all is well with Soviet science and scientists. Ideological considerations have sometimes been used to channel scientific thinking and experiment, with ludicrous results. But it is obvious that Soviet scientific progress has been notable, and that nothing is being spared in the drive to attain world leadership. The job of this country and the West, obviously, is to keep the lead in the race.

Alfred P. Haake

by
Dr. Alfred
P. Haake

EDITOR'S NOTE: Alfred P. Haake, Ph. D., Chairman of the Laymen's National Committee, is a noted economist, author and lecturer.

Human nature can be very perverse on occasion. Indeed, it does not always need occasion to make it so. People are born, grow up and become mature, but manage somehow to retain unrefined, some of the less desirable traits of childhood.

Among them is the disposition to disregard reason and logic and even to sound objectives to which they are pointed, in order to vent some childish spleen. And this in spite of the fact that the childish indulgence may be exactly contrary to the best interests of the inert adult exercising it.

Nowhere is this perverseness more evident than in the field of politics. Contestants are constantly on the alert for some little ally by their opponents which can be magnified and distorted into sinister proportions. For they know these professionals, that people are more likely to vote against something which they do not like than for something which is genuinely in their interest if only their childish passions can be aroused.

Perhaps this is because, as some cynic has put it, "Only five percent of the people really think; another five percent like to think that they think, and most of the rest would rather die than think." So a great military hero, about a half century ago, lost his popularity overnight and with it the chance to become President of the United States, because he turned over to his wife a house which popular subscription by his fellow citizens had given him in recognition of his great service to them. Just what giving that house to his wife had to do with the man's qualifications for being President is hard to say, but the veracity of a childish public killed his hopes.

for that recognition. An unguarded remark, even though true, can be turned with tremendous effect against its maker. And this in spite of the fact that it has nothing to do with the performance of the individual or his qualification for future service.

Witness the recent comment on varieties of dogs by a cabinet official. I prefer bird dogs myself, and so do most of the people who hopped on that comment. What the man said was true and it illustrates an unfortunate trend which politicians themselves have been encouraging in our country for some time. And they begin to get the same results that the animal keeper gets when he feeds animals with no effort on their part. After a while they do get the habit of sitting on their haunches and howling until food is brought to them.

Of course the remark was politically inept, but it was magnified and distorted beyond all reason by the labor leader who would have us believe that the universe hung by a thread and mankind was fatally insulted by the comment he attacked.

Well, sea-gulls don't have too many friends, so I'll risk my neck by reminding the reader of the sea-gulls who were fed for years from the waste thrown overboard by returning shrimp fleets. The fleets left to seek new shrimp beds and closer harbors but the sea-gulls remained behind. A new generation of gulls had never had to hunt for food, so they mournfully awaited the return of the shrimp fleet. The fleet never came back, so the gulls starved to death. They had never learned to feed themselves.

Now let someone make the worst of that comment and indict me for being a callous hater of needy men. A Fascist, reactionary or something else despicable, while those who see only what they want to see ignore the real issue involved.

Georgia is the nation's biggest broiler state. It raises five or six times as many broilers as does Maine, starting nearly four million birds each week. About 30 million broilers are started in the principal areas of the United States each week—one for every eighth person.

THE STORY THAT NEVER GROWS OLD

DALE CARNEGIE

AUTHOR OF "HOW TO STOP WORRYING AND START LIVING"

BESS BAKER, P. O. Box 311, Sunnyvale, California, tells us of being offered a better position than the one she had held for three and a half years. It was unfortunate though that the one who had held the job did not work out satisfactorily, and was laid off, what she was hired. Because of this, she became the cause for jealousy among some of the girls who hadn't known her before. They seemed to resent her because she had replaced the former worker. Possibly they supposed she would be cancelled and think herself important.

She was disturbed by their unfriendliness, though at first she thought, "What difference does it make whether or not those girls like me?" But then she decided to win their friendship, so she started applying "Six ways of making people like you." The rule which she thinks was most effective was "smile." So she made it a habit of smiling every time she looked at one of the unfriendly girls when she said, "Good morning" and she called her by name.

She didn't have too much time for conversation during office hours, but whenever she met a girl in the hall, she started a conversation about something which interested her. One of the girls was going to have a baby, so she asked if she wanted a boy or girl. You can imagine the conversation that started when she began telling her she wanted a girl and why. Another of the girls is exceptionally well dressed, and she was surprised and pleased when Bess complimented her on a scarf she wore.

By thoughtful and kindly methods she not only made those girls happier, but she became happier herself.

SCANNING THE NEWS

THE November election, except in some dairy regions, failed to settle in any decisive manner the battle between the rigid and flexible party adherents in either the Democrat or Republican parties.

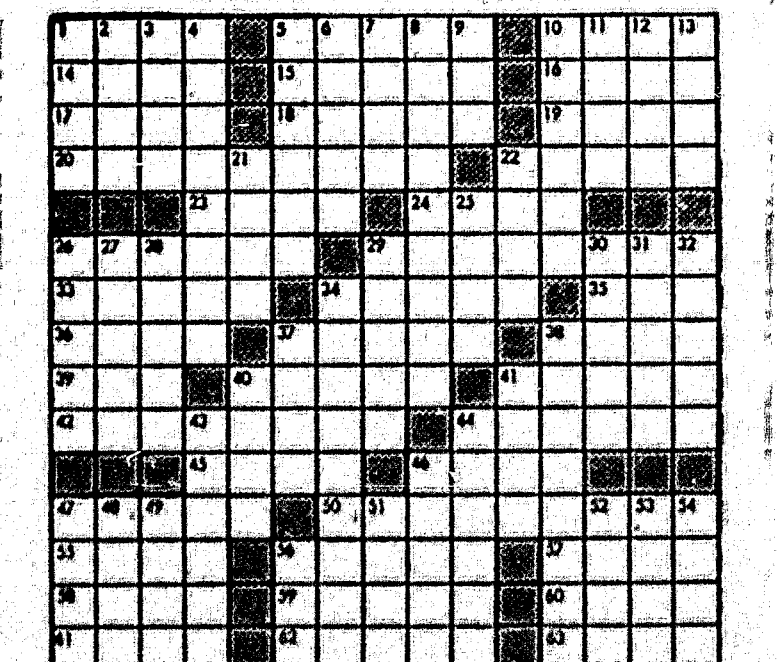

Some authorities believe that as a result of the elections the rigid party advocates probably made a net gain of some 19 seats in the House of Representatives. However this is not nearly enough to reverse the vote of 170 to 229 by which the house adopted the flexible 75 to 80 per cent parity for farm price supports in the last congress.

That this question is still highly controversial and that farmers in large measure are not yet satisfied with the Eisenhower flexible parity program, was particularly pin-pointed at the 88th annual session of the National Grange.

Apparently not satisfied with the present Eisenhower flexible program, Herschel D. Newsom, of Indiana, Master of the National Grange, called for this next congress to give approval to a domestic parity plan containing a "two-price plan" for wheat, and possibly one or two other export crops, as a means of enabling farmers to produce for world markets at competitive prices. He also urged enactment of other trade expansion devices.

Referring to Secretary Benson's plan to sell surplus on the world market, in an effort to solve the parity system on domestic crops, Mr. Newsom said: "It will serve no useful purpose to assume that foreign markets will entirely solve our so-called surplus farm problem. It is however, even more inefficient areas."

"I REMEMBER"
BY THE OLDTIMERS

From Albert R. Johnson, Eureka, Kansas: I remember about 60 years ago my sister sang a song. "Come take a trip in my ship, come take a trip to the stars." Also, about that time there were often articles in the paper about radio (they called it wireless telegraphy). Both the song and the articles seemed fantastic then, but today they are talking about flying to the moon.

From Edna Cole, Mesa, Arizona: I remember in 1903, while living on a farm in central Texas, five miles from school. Our parents recalled three children. The winter months were usually cold and often excessive rains and snows fell, making the rural roads impassable to horse and buggy, so we rode horses to school.

Being the eldest daughter, 11 years old, father bought me a new saddle with a colorful plush-padded seat and mother made me a lovely long black saddle riding skirt that almost reached the ground.

Rider rode behind me and as we rode along the country roads and through pastures, I'd gather up my skirts and we would ride astride.

One morning we were late and were racing along when I, we met the pastor of our local rural church. How embarrassed I was, sliding with my skirt gathered up, astride rather than side-saddle. (Send contributions to this column to "The Old Timer," c/o Oxford County Citizen, Bethel, Maine.)

THE LOW DOWN FROM HICKORY GROVE

I been reading where a Pen and Ink Co. says its sale of red ink has slipped by 21 per cent. But I reckon this company don't have much Govt. business—don't sell in barrel lots. Red ink is still in prime demand where rolls the wide Toot-mae.

But before going further in my delving, you can say there are good signs and omens showing up. The new and present Govt. has gone to bat with a little set of behind the times—or bewildered—senators who think it is a feather in their cap to put burrs under the private ownership saddle. These befuddled brethren don't seem to catch on that most of fading Europe operates under some such plan of Govt. direction, as they keep harping about as to what we should do at TVA. And the bigger it gets the more the taxes that have to be made up by the citizens—Maine to Oregon—Saint Paul to Corpus Christi. A gov't. barber shop, a Gov't. plumber, or a Gov't. power house would be the same. Political. Always SCARY and needing more money. We been wandering from the successful ways of our forefathers. Somebody needs whisper in the ear of this little half dozen lot of senators whose thinking don't seem to be hitting on all cylinders—maybe needs a valve grind—or cobweb overhaul—or be sent home.

Yours with the low down,
JO BEHRELA

The "one first" attitude plays a prominent part in the motor vehicle accident picture. This attitude is reflected in discourteous behavior, in lack of consideration for the other fellow. Our State Police ask us to guard against this attitude... to be willing to give the other motorist or pedestrian a break. Such an attitude will help to keep us out of traffic difficulties.

my P P PET EEEVE by Mike Bennett

IT WAS back in September that the little woman and I sat down and made out our Christmas list. For once, we intended to complete our shopping early. Since there was ample time, we called it the "tentative" list, to be mullied over from time to time, with a change made here and there as we came up with better gift ideas.

September. Long time. We could revise the list at our leisure, shop when convenient, and take all kinds of time to do some real fancy gift wrapping.

October and still plenty of time. The list was revised. November brought a change in the weather... scattered snow flurries. We made a more-or-less "final" revision of the list. Time to start buying things.

It's a long, long time from September to December, but if you're busy doing things the pages fall from the calendar as frost-bitten trees leaves in a hurricane wind. Don't know where they go—but they go.

Christmas is almost here. There's a little reminder on the front page of the local paper. You can almost count the remaining shopping days on your fingers.

There's also an interview with a psychiatrist who says research can't explain why most folks put off holiday buying until the last minute, but it is suspected that one of the important factors is "lack of planning"... folks don't make plans, just sit around until the last moment.

I think there are other reasons, but don't have any time to concern myself with it. The wife just called and asked that I hurry home so we could revise our Christmas list.

GOULD ACADEMY

GOULD DROPS OPENER, 41-52 At Farmington Teachers College last Tuesday, Gould Academy lost to the Teachers J.V.s by a 41-52 score. The game was rough and hard fought on the Alumni Gym's small floor. The Huskies looked good at times but they also looked bad. The first period was especially well played as Gould went out front 17-10. It was in the second period that the game was lost. The J.V.s came through with 14 points while holding the Academy five to a single field goal by White.

The losers fought hard in the final period outscoring Farmington 14-11 but the damage had been done during the middle periods. White of Gould and Jacksons of the Teachers were high scorers with 14 points each. Other leading scorers were Manchester with 11 and Reynolds 10 for the victors and Rowe 10 for Gould.

TWO HOME GAMES FOR BETHEL FANS

Friday and Tuesday, December 10 and 14, the Gould basketballs will be at home entertaining league foes. The first encounter on Friday, will find South Paris as the opponent. It is the first year that Gould has met the Cardinals in the opening of the Conference schedule. The visitors have already won easy victories over Windham and Norway. They still have their elongated star center, Snow, and Captain Seeley back from last year's championship team. It will be a tough assignment for the Huskies. The two JV teams are scheduled to meet at 8:30 p. m.

Tuesday night, December 14, Bridgton High will be here with nearly a veteran team. They also have some big men that will be hard to stop. Bridgton is also a League team and they will be making a strong bid for top honors. The game should be a thriller. The J.V.s will open the festivities at 6:30 p. m.

The annual Christmas Formal will be held in William Bingham Gymnasium on Saturday night, December 11. Gordon Howe and his orchestra of Richmond, Maine, will furnish the music.

The annual Gehring Hall Christmas Tea will take place on Sunday, December 12, from 3:30 to 5 p. m.

There are 10,000 WACS in service today—and it costs $10,000,000 less a year to feed, house and water them than 10,000 GIs.

As to pitchers, in the National League Curt Simmons and Robin Roberts of the Phillies and Harvey Haddix of the Cardinals were generally named as the pitchers hardest to touch. And in the American, Bob Lemon, Mike Garcia and Alie Reynolds were named most. But Ted Williams came up with a surprise. He said he got his worst treatment from Marlin Stuart, formerly with the Browns, Orioles and Yankees but now in the minors. Eddie Yost said Statchel Paige was his private terror. Ray Jablonski feared Lew Hardette most, and Earl Torgeson hated to see Al Brazle on the mound.

Musla says his jinx when he first came up was Johnny Vander Meer. Now it's Curt Simmons. Jackie Robinson fears Haddix more than any other. To Duke Snider and Junior Gilliam the toughest man is Simmons.

While most players interviewed by The Sporting News had a pitcher to name, Gil Hodges of the Dodgers came up with perhaps the most frank answer. The toughest for him to hit "Anybody out there on the mound."

He brought his regalia, and went right to work and both told and showed how he tested milk for butter-fat content. After the "show" he showed pictures of places and people where he goes which made it very interesting. Too bad that more did not turn out. Our new Lecturer is doing a very good job and making our literary programs especially interesting. Next meeting, Dec. 18, will be Christmas night with a tree and exchange of gifts. Each and every one please bring a 25-30 cent gift for exchange and we are sure to have one grand time. Let's really turn out and have fun—come one and all and bring your cousins. Visitors welcome. Mrs. David Foster, Corres.
Alder River Grange No. 145 held a regular meeting on Dec. 3 with Worthy Master Richard Stevens in the chair. The Worthy Secretary Marguerite Bartlett reported that the pitchers had been received and showed the different colors that came. The Worthy Lecturer, Bernice Noyes presented the following program: Monologue, "The Hired Girl," by Arlene Coddige; Battle Hymn of the Republic by the Grange; Skit, "Soft Soap," Bernice Noyes and Stoven Abbott. Under Suggestions for the Good of the Order, Worthy Master suggested that the upstairs hall be insulated so as to be warm in the winter. He appointed himself as a committee to find out if it could be done and how much it would cost. The next program will be in charge of the Youth Committee with Mrs. Lyndall Carter as chairman.

Winfield Holman of Center Conway, N. H., will be at the Otter Brook Sunday School December 12 and will show slides of the Christmas Story. Let's have a good attendance. The Sunday School now meets at the home of Mrs. David Foster.

There will be a Christmas Party and Planning Meeting of the East Bethel Extension Group on Dec. 15 at the home of Mrs. Lillian Bartlett in the evening. Mrs. Myra Foster left Tuesday for Lewiston where she attended Maine State Grange as a delegate of Alder River Grange.

NOT A PRETTY PICTURE—especially when you are on the receiving end. A sneeze, a cough, a kiss, or fast talking by a person who has active tuberculosis can spread the germs. The tuberculosis associations work toward early discovery of all cases of TB. Early diagnosis and prompt treatment of all cases of tuberculosis are necessary to break the chain of infection and bring the disease under control. Today more and more cases of TB are being found in the earlier and more easily curable stages when new developments in surgery and chemotherapy are particularly effective. FARM AND HOME WEEK DATES SET FOR APRIL 4 TO 7, 1955

Dates for the 48th annual Farm and Home Week at the University of Maine have been set for April 4 to 7, 1955. More than 4,200 men and women registered for the 1954 Farm and Home Week, reports Chairman Herbert A. Leonard. LEWIS CLARK NAMED EXTENSION FARM MANAGEMENT SPECIALIST

Lewis E. Clark, of Wilton, has been appointed Extension Service farm management specialist at the University of Maine. He began his new duties December 1, announcing Arthur L. Deering, Extension director. Clark replaces Philip S. Parsons, who resigned in October. Since completing graduate work he has been employed by the Farm Credit Administration serving in Syracuse, New York, and Newport, Maine. At the time of his appointment he was assistant secretary-treasurer of the Production Credit Association of eastern New York, and National Farm Loan Association at Mendon, New York. Born in Gloucester, Mass., the new farm management specialist grew up on a general in Wilton. He has had experience with poultry, dairy, and crops, and recently owned a small herd of registered Holstein cattle. You may owe your life to a CONCRETE PAVEMENT

You can see farther and stop in a shorter distance on concrete, the safety pavement because:

1. Concrete's light-colored surface reflects up to four times more light than dark-colored pavements. You see pedestrians, obstructions and other driving hazards sooner and have more time to slow down or stop.

2. Concrete's gritty surface has uniformly high skid resistance, wet or dry. Your tires get a firm, tight grip, permitting quick stops without skidding.

Your license fees, gas and other taxes pay for roads and streets. Insist that they be paved with the safest possible pavement—concrete. It may save your life.

WORTH REPEATING
"Let no American be duped by irresponsible talk about the alleged 'give away' policies of the Eisenhower administration! That kind of talk comes from pro-socialists who think it would be wonderful if the government could own and operate all of the country's national resources." — Portland (Me.) Express.
